

12 days of Christmas – Denise's story

Retiring at 66, when I could have retired at 60, plus a move to the seaside, and smaller house, it did not take me long to realise that I needed to do some voluntary work and make new friends. My work in finance, housing and the dreaded utility bills would mean I had a some knowledge of the sort of areas people would need help with. If you are bored and watching day time TV, this could be the voluntary job for you!
